

Living in the Wider World - Aiming High

PSHE and Citizenship | KS1 | Planning Overview

About the Topic

In this unit of work, children will learn about having high aspirations. They will start by discussing positive views of themselves and will then identify how having a positive learning attitude can help them tackle and achieve new learning challenges and improve learning outcomes. Opportunities will also be provided for children to share aspirations for the future, with regard to employment and personal goals. Through this learning, different jobs and roles will be considered. In doing this, some of the difficulties faced by stereotyping will be explored. Children will also have the opportunity to discuss what they are looking forward to about their learning next year.

Home Learning

Aiming High – Jobs in My Local Community: In this activity children get the opportunity to draw pictures of jobs they notice being done in their local community. They can then extend their learning by writing words or sentences to show what each of the jobs they see might involve.

Aiming High – My Star Qualities at Home: In this home learning task children are invited to think about what star qualities they show at home. They can draw a picture of them showing a star quality and write a sentence to accompany it.

Wider Learning:

A 'Star Quality Box' could be started in the classroom where children can write down examples they see of other children demonstrating star qualities. This could even be extended to the wider school by starting a 'Star Quality Certificate' scheme to be shared at a celebration assembly. Boxes can be set up and used around the school if children are to nominate each other, or teachers can nominate children they see showing star qualities.
